

Contents

Introduction: Lessons and Reminders Curtis L. Hancock & Anthony O. Simon	1
--	---

PART I FIRST PRINCIPLES AND THE HUMAN PERSON

A Weakness in the “Standard Argument” for Natural Immortality Don T. Asselin	17
--	----

Eros and the Catholic Tradition Mary Carmen Rose	28
--	----

Non-Conceptual Knowledge in Jacques Maritain and Gabriel Marcel Brendan Sweetman	41
--	----

PART II MORAL DIRECTIVES: PRINCIPLES, HABITS, AND JUDGMENTS

The Fundamental Role of Duty in Jacques Maritain’s Moral Philosophy Donald De Marco	61
---	----

On Yves R. Simon as a Moral Philosopher Ralph McInerny	76
--	----

A Moral Realist Perspective on Yves R. Simon’s Interpretation of Habitus John Killoran	88
--	----

Synderesis: A Key to Understanding Natural Law in Aquinas Mark McGovern	104
A Fresh Look at the Principle of the Double Effect W. L. LaCroix	125
“There are No Sinners in Hell!” : Moral Judgments and Love in the Philosophy of Jacques Maritain John G. Trapani, Jr.	138
Rahner and Maritain on Existential Ethics Joseph L. Pappin, III	148
Three Versions of the Nonmoral Good Thomas Loughran	160
Tradition as “Bearer of Reason” in Alasdair MacIntyre’s Moral Enquiry Alice Ramos	179
Moral Crisis and the Turn to Narrative Thomas Hibbs	194
Maritain’s Unnatural Acts Roger Duncan	212
Maritain and the Pursuit of Happiness in Light of Claudel, Péguy, and Bernanos William Bush	220
Are the Poor Blessed? On Happiness and Beatitude Deal W. Hudson	235
A Biblical View of Natural Law in the Book of Wisdom Joseph Koterski, S.J.	253
Morality and Christian Morality Joseph M. de Torre	264

PART III THE MORAL AGENT AND THE COMMON GOOD

The Self, Intersubjectivity, and the Common Good Joseph J. Califano	281
---	-----

The Good Citizen and the Demands of Democracy: An Application of the Political Philosophy of Yves R. Simon Diane Caplin	293
Moving Beyond Ideology in Christian Economic Thought: Yves R. Simon and the Recent Debates Clarke E. Cochran & Thomas Rourke	307
Private Morality and Public Enforcement Peter Redpath	332
The Scope of Justice Ralph Nelson	342
Epilogue: Michael Novak	358
Contributors	367
Index	372

Acknowledgments

While compiling and editing this collection of essays, many friends and colleagues have counseled and encouraged us. We would like to thank Raymond Dennehy, Deal W. Hudson, and Peter Redpath for their availability and moral support throughout the editing of this volume.

In addition, we would like to thank John Ehmann, James Langford, and Jeffrey Gainey of the University of Notre Dame Press for their help in coordinating schedules for publication. Thanks also must go to Fred Schoerner of Photo Composition Service, Grand Rapids, Michigan, who supplied the camera-ready manuscript.

We are also grateful to Jules Brady, S. J., and Joseph Freeman, S. J., Professors of Philosophy at Rockhurst College, who provided financial support for preparing this publication. They have also inspired us by their deep appreciation for Maritain and Simon and the Perennial Philosophy.

Three other members of the Rockhurst College Community must also be thanked. Rodney Yarnal was of invaluable assistance in providing the computer skills necessary to compile the initial set of essays. Renee McGautha also helped in this regard. Dr. Charles Kovich, Chair of the Department of English, carefully read the penultimate manuscript.

Further, we express our gratitude to Ralph McInerny, Director of the Jacques Maritain Center at the University of Notre Dame, for his advice and his commitment to the aims of the American Maritain Association. Also we must thank Michael Novak of the American Enterprise Institute for graciously accepting our invitation to write the Epilogue to this volume.

Lastly, a tribute must be paid to our wives, Sandra Hancock and Judith Simon, who endured and encouraged us during these seasons of work.